

Borough-Township Quota $4,432,000 For 7th Loan Drive

Goal 60% More Than In 6th Bond Campaign; Money Needed to Carry On War Against Japan, Says Chairman Thomas Barnes

The quota for the seventh war loan for Lower Merion and Narberth, of which Thomas Barnes, II, Gladwyne, is committee chairman, has been placed at $4,432,000, of which $1,484,000 is to be in 'E' Bonds. This is 60 per cent more than was required in the Sixth War Loan.

In announcing the figures, Chairman Barnes draws attention to the fact that this section of Montgomery County—Lower Merion and Narberth—oversubscribed the Sixth War Loan to the amount of $1,708,925. The quota in the last drive was set at $3,696,000 and the final figure contained in the report submitted by Mr. Barnes, Chairman, also, of the drive, was $5,404,925. The $2,000,000 Autocar Company bond was included in this grand total.

The Seventh War Loan Drive, which starts May 14, takes on the biggest quota to date. There will be only two War Loan Drives this year, not three. In those two drives the Government will have to raise almost as much money from individuals as in the three drives last year.

"The money is needed for the battle of Japan which has just begun. It must be backed up, paid for, fought for by a free people, intent on sweeping the Pacific clear of fascist hate—forever. Millions of fighting men, freshly equipped and outfitted, will have to be moved from Europe halfway around the globe and supplied day in and day out by hundreds of new ships now building," declared Chairman Barnes.

"Many millions of dollars will be required for mustering out pay and benefits voted by Congress to help our veterans get started again in civilian life. That's the least we can do in return for what they've done for us."

"The 26 million Americans who buy bonds on payroll savings are already off to a flying start, and these include the organizations and industrial plants located in Lower Merion Township and Narberth. These patriotic men and women began their buying in April. They will keep on buying extra bonds through May and June."

Why Don't You Brand That Squirrel, Joe

Squirrels are squirrels, and bites are bites, and when the two get together, something ought to be done about it.

That at least was the opinion of an Essex Ave. woman. And so she complained to Joseph H. White, Narberth, who is Court House transcriber at Norristown, a State deputy game warden, and Republican committeeman of Narberth's First District.

As State deputy game warden, White decided that the thing to do was to set a trap for the offending squirrel.

But then the thought struck him: If and when he does catch a squirrel in his trap, will it be the one that bit the woman. It seems that there are quite a few of the pesky things in the community.

Mulieres Entertain Narberth Firemen At Annual Banquet

Volunteers and Guests Enjoy Turkey Dinner And a Show

Nearly 100 members and guests of the Narberth Fire Company met for dinner at Elm Hall Wednesday night to revive a custom of many years standing which had been dropped because of the war. What with rationing and the fact that many members of the company are in the service, there was some question whether the traditional annual banquet should be held this year or should be omitted until the war is over. However, it was finally decided that the affair would be a boost to the morale of those who are still here seeing to it that the home fires don't burn disastrously. Together enough ration points to provide a first-class dinner was taken over by the Mulieres, who traditionally pay for and prepare the banquet.

As a result, the firemen and their guests sat down to a delicious dinner of turkey and all the fixings. Presiding over the feast was William Durbin, president of the fire company, and the guests included the officials of the borough, members of the local police force, life members of the company, Samuel Gearhart, superintendent of the Lower Merion police, and the presidents and chiefs of all volunteer fire companies in Lower Merion Township.

The necessary funds for the dinner were raised by the Mulieres through a series of card parties.

The dinner committee, headed by Mrs. Arthur Goldsmith, president of the Mulieres, comprised Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, Mrs. Jane Wetzel, Mrs. Joseph White, Mrs. J. E. Burrell, Mrs. Frank S. Glendinning, Mrs. Arthur Meyer, Mrs. George Lieb, Mrs. J. H. Baker, Mrs. Edgar Cockrill, Mrs. Ralph MacGuffin, Mrs. E. Gensler, Mrs. George Gilpin, Jr., Mrs. Charles Haist, Mrs. A. E. Burgstesser, Mrs. Thomas Blake, Mrs. Charles Vieters, Mrs. Fred Miller, Mrs. Carl Grace, Mrs. George Orth and Mrs. William Schenck. After dinner, the group was entertained by accordion players and a show staged by Dr. and Mrs. Irving, mind readers, sleight of hand artists and card trick experts.

Narberth Gave Twelve Tons Of Clothing In National Drive

Volunteer workers sorted, packed and wrapped 277 bundles of used clothing during April for the United National Clothing Collection.

Headed by Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, the volunteers had the clothing ready for collection by Saturday, April 28. A truck from the collection center in Philadelphia hauled approximately 12 tons from the Narberth collection depot in Elm Hall.

Much of the clothing was brought directly from the dry-cleaners. It was sorted into six classifications by the group, which included: Mrs. Ruth W. Grace, Borough Secretary; George B. Supple, Borough health officer; John R. Hall, Borough tax collector.

After the packages were tied up, workmen carried the cartons from the stage at Elm Hall to the waiting truck.

Mrs. Grace disclosed that Narberth's collection included more than 100 pair of good shoes, an almost new silk down quilt, seven fur coats and many woolen blankets.

Rod and Gun Club To Enter Tourney

June 17 Date Set For MAACC Annual Casting Event

The Middle Atlantic Association of Casting Clubs, of which the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club is a member, has chosen June 17 as the date for its annual tournament to be held at Willow Grove Park, and has asked the Lower Merion club to take charge of the fly casting event on the tournament day, when contestants from 14 members clubs of Montgomery, Delaware, Philadelphia and Lehigh counties expect to vie for honors in plug, fly and surf accuracy and distance events. Entries in all events, the association decided at a recent meeting, will be open from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M.

In addition to the usual fly, plug and surf competition annually scheduled, a ½ oz. accuracy event will be repeated. Rules for this event, the association decided recently, will be the same as for the ½ oz. accuracy, except that ¾ oz. targets will be placed at random and unknown distances from 30 to 50 feet from the casting position; whereas, ½ oz. accuracy target distance range from 40 to 80 feet.

In seven main events of its annual tournament, the Middle Atlantic Association of Casting Clubs requires the use of fishing tackle of standard manufacture, that is, tackle which is used by the majority of sportsmen as they actually fish on the streams and at the surf. The association, since its origin in 1939, has sponsored this requirement in order to enable all fishermen to enjoy casting, instead of limiting the sport to a few who can afford unusual and expensive rods, reels, etc., and scores made in the seven main events of the M. A. C. C. tournament are national scores with everyday fishing tackle.

The M. A. C. C. has been awarding prizes on a class-system basis, so that beginners as well as more expert contestants can win equally valuable prizes. This year the prizes will be War Bonds and Stamps.

Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club casters who placed high among the entrants of the M. A. C. C. tournament at Willow Grove Park last year were as follows: Skeets Anderson of Narberth, E. R. Barth of Manoa, Barney Berlinger of Elkins Park, Howell and Ellen Dietrich of Upper Darby, Howard DuBois of Norwood, Lloyd DuBois of Bala-Cynwyd, Joseph Hirsch of Philadelphia, Ernest Jenkins of Narberth and Samuel Weitz of Philadelphia.

Bankers Discuss GI Bill of Rights

Program Urged For Dealing With Returning Veterans

A program for handling the problems of returning veterans was proposed by William Powers, secretary of the American Bankers Association committee on service for war veterans, at a meeting of the Montgomery County Bankers Association in Norristown last Thursday night.

Powers gave a resume of the GI Bill of Rights which he said was fathered and mothered by the American Legion and launched with political ballyhoo and signed under pressure.

He said that the banks should adopt a program of rehiring former employees who were in the service; a program of relations with veteran customers and a program with other veterans of the community.

Powers said simplified regulations were needed under the GI Bill of Rights and expressed the opinion enabling legislation would be needed to make it workable.

"The returning veteran," he said, "will be the most powerful political and economic bloc in our national economy for the next several decades," he said. "It is our responsibility to help them rehabilitate themselves."

Powers was introduced by T. Allen Glenn, Jr., president of the Peoples National Bank, Norristown, and a past president of the organization.

'Missing' Not Always Bad News, Army Casualty Chief Explains

(Editor's Note: Because there are many parents and wives in this community who have received word that their sons or husbands are "missing in action," we believe the following article will be of general interest. It was written last year by Col. George F. Herbert, chief of the Casualty Branch and was printed in the Prisoners of War Bulletin, published by the Red Cross.)

During the two-year period in which this nation has been at war, the Army's greatest problem resulting from the casualties incurred has been that of securing information regarding the American soldiers who have been reported missing in action.

The term, "missing in action," is used only to indicate that the whereabouts or status of an individual is not immediately known. If a plane fails to reach its destination or another fails to return to its base if a soldier is not present for roll call following a landing operation or other engagement, or if a ship bearing military personnel is overdue at its destination, the persons involved can only be reported as missing, or missing in action.

It is not intended to convey the impression that his case is closed; rather, he is placed in this category only until such time as information is secured that is definite and conclusive, forming the basis for the determination of his fate.

The Mulieres entertained at a turkey dinner Wednesday, May 2, at Elm Hall, among the 70 guests were the Chief of Police, active firemen, fire chiefs and presidents of Bryn Mawr, Ardmore, Gladwyne, Manayunk, Cynwyd, Penn Wynne and Narberth.

Mrs. Eberhardt Mueller, in charge of the United Clothing Campaign in Narberth, reports 202 cartons of clothes, eight cartons yet to be packed and clothing still arriving.

Up to date, the organ grinder and his monkey have not paid their annual visit to the "Village," but the scissor grinder, ringing his bell, was seen and heard going up one street and down another.

The vegetable gardens have been at more or less of a standstill since the spell of cool weather, but the flower garden is bright with tulips, blue Spring Pinks and gay pansy faces and forget-me-nots. Think we will all enjoy the warm weather when it comes.

Missing Are Not

ture is occasioned when the individual himself returns to his own company or unit. This has happened in many cases, and will happen in many more, for men will continue to evade capture when, due to the ever-changing battle lines, they find themselves separated from their parent unit and in territory occupied by the enemy. They will continue to avail themselves of every means known to man for sustaining life when shipwrecked.

It is worth remembering that it is not the one soldier alone who strives to return to his commanding officer and report for duty; to have the complete picture, add to this the fact that his organization commander, his theater commander, and our government, strive to secure the details that will determine his fate. The organization commanders' searches for missing personnel begin immediately after discovery that the men are unaccounted for. These searches are organized and conducted in the most expeditious manner possible, lending themselves to existing conditions in the territory involved. A search may be made from the air, if the possibility of an aircraft accident exists, or it may be conducted by ground troops. But it does not end there. All personnel reports submitted by the various organizations are coordinated and examined for information that might lead to the recovery of a missing man. Such reports are again examined at headquarters in the theaters of operation and, as one instance of the results obtained, our soldiers are sometimes found even to be in Allied hospitals.

Stettinius-Stimson Statement On German-Held U. S. Prisoners

The Red Cross this week released the following statement issued by Secretary of State Stettinius and Secretary of War Stimson:

"Since the beginning of this year there has been a steadily increasing failure on the part of the German Government to provide, according to the standards established by the Geneva Convention, for American prisoners of war in German custody. Accordingly the Government of the United States, with the cooperation of the Swiss Government as protective power, the Swedish Government, the American Red Cross, and the International Red Cross, has been and is doing everything within its power to get food and other supplies to these men.

"In general, conditions under which American prisoners are held in Germany today are deplorable. The offensives of the Allied armies on the East and on the Western fronts, the evacuation of the 78 in which American soldiers were known to have been held. These military operations have resulted in the liberation of approximately 15,000 prisoners of war from the Eastern and Western fronts. However, the German Government has hastily evacuated 36,000 American prisoners into the interior of Germany where 34,000 others were already being held.

"The movement of these 36,000 American prisoners into the interior of Germany, together with thousands of other Allied prisoners, and millions of civilians, was accomplished in many cases on foot. The German Government made little or no preparation to provide food, shelter and medical care for these prisoners, who are marched long distances under extreme weather conditions. Many of them arrived at their destinations exhausted and sick. Those who were unable to complete the marches were eventually transported to railroads, from which they were moved by freight trains to prisons of war camps deeper in Germany.

"The constant compressing of these prisoners into camps in an ever-narrowing area has resulted in extreme hardship. Food and sanitary provisions have suffered, and disrupted transport has resulted in a shortage of Red Cross supplies in many places. "In an effort to relieve this situation, large central supply depots of Red Cross stocks were established in areas where there were large concentrations of Allied prisoners. In Northern Germany, Lubek was the German port of entry for materials shipped from Sweden. Moosburg, in Bavaria, was the railroad for delivery of supplies from Switzerland. The locations of these depots may be changed in accordance with changes in prisoner concentrations, and changes in the operational situation.

"Ample stocks are available in Sweden and Switzerland to keep these depots provided. At present a total of 163,580 tons of Red Cross supplies, including millions of individual food parcels, are either available in Lubek and Moosburg for transshipment into Germany or are awaiting shipment in Switzerland and at the ports of Toulon, Goteborg, Lisbon, Marseilles, and Barcelona.

"Supplies are moved constantly from Sweden to Lubek in small Swedish coastal vessels. Railroad cars have been made available for an international Red Cross Pool for the carriage of supplies.

from Switzerland into Germany. A total of 524 railroad cars have been supplied for this service from non-German sources. During the first twelve days of March, Germany provided 44 railroad cars for the transport of 500 tons of Red Cross supplies from Switzerland.

"The principal problem is that of transporting these supplies to the prisoner-of-war camps after they have arrived in Germany. Recourse is being made to truck convoys. These have been furnished together with fuel, from Allied governmental and military sources. They are operated by the International Red Cross. Approximately 250 trucks are reported operating at present in this service in Southern Germany, and 69 in Northern Germany. Additional trucks are being assembled and put into service as soon as available.

"In many cases, Allied prisoners of war are driving the relief trucks. Military authorities report, with particular reference to the Southern area, that the facilities for moving the supplies are improving.

"Despite chaotic conditions inside Germany, there is evidence that supplies are reaching some of the prisoner camps. Efforts to get supplies to all of the remaining camps will continue unremittingly.

"These facts are presented so that the American people may have authoritative information regarding the conditions under which American prisoners are being held in Germany, and knowledge of the efforts being made to ameliorate these conditions.

"In addition to the suffering caused by the conditions here described instances are being daily uncovered of deliberate neglect, indifference, and cruelty in the treatment of American prisoners of war, actions which have shocked the entire civilized world. These atrocities are documented by the pitiable condition of liberated American soldiers. The American Nation will not forget them. It is our intention that the perpetrators of these heinous crimes against American citizens and against civilization itself will be brought to justice."

Voting Not Enough Citizens Are Told

Authority on Local Government Lists Other Obligations

It is not enough to vote, if a person is to fulfill his duties as a citizen, William G. Walker, field representative of the University of Pennsylvania's Institute of Local and State Government, told Haverford Township residents Monday night.

Walker was one of the speakers at a mass meeting held at the high school under the auspices of the Haverford Township Civic Council.

Other duties, he said, "citizens should make fair appraisals of candidates for public offices and fair appraisals of the policies and administrative results of the officials in office. If your tax rate is higher than that of a neighboring municipality, find out the reason before venturing opinions for the reason might be that your township has just completed an era of extensive public improvements, while the neighboring municipality might not have started its improvement programs, or completed them so long ago that the peak of its debt burden has passed.

"Good municipal services and good schools require adequate taxes, wise administrative policies and good personnel. Public employees should be paid commensurate with equivalent work in private enterprise. Ten, too, if the Federal Social Security Plan continues to exclude municipal employees from protection, some retirement plan should be provided for public employees. Adequate pay and security are vital elements of a sound personnel policy.

"Keep Public Informed. "Another important part of the relations between the citizens and the local government," Walker continued, "is the periodic reporting of township and school affairs to the people. Complete newspaper articles should be prepared on all important policy decisions, on the cost of township government and school administration, and on the methods of carrying out the routine administrative services.

"The citizens should know how much police and fire protection there is in their respective communities; they should know the program for constructing and repairing streets, the condition of the sewer system and plans for proper maintenance, the effectiveness of the administration of public health protection, the plans for new recreation facilities, the effectiveness of enforcing zoning and building regulations, the educational program in the schools and the program of student self-government. Of great importance, also, is the duty of the officials to administer township functions impartially among the various neighborhoods and sections."

Walker summarized other obligations of citizens as follows: Pay the tax bill as promptly as possible; take an interest in local civic organizations and possible participation in their activities; feel at liberty to petition or address a suggestion or complaint to the local officials; obey township regulations.

He congratulated Haverford Township on the meeting, pointing out that it represented a fundamental principle in democratic government—the principle that the citizen body is an integral part of the government.

"A hundred years ago," he said, "Alexis de Toqueville wrote that local assemblies of citizens constitute the strength of free nations. Town meetings are to liberty what primary schools are to

Roosevelt Tribute At Narberth School Assembly

We are gathered together this morning in an unusual assembly. For the first time in your young lives you are experiencing a Nation bowed in grief, for our great country has lost its President, its leader, by death. Regardless of our personal political beliefs and affiliations, we recognize that the passing of Franklin D. Roosevelt we have lost a great statesman, leader and peace loving man. Altogether recognized by many as a war captain magnificent, Franklin Delano Roosevelt was a firm believer in peace and a world community of men. He so expressed himself many times. He habitually invoked the blessings of God upon our Nation when crises arose, and prayed for a speedy termination of war. We have every reason to believe that his faith was stimulating and devout.

Ex-President Roosevelt was a thoroughly human person, simple in his tastes, with a keen sense of humor and a firm hand. He loved a good story and told many of them at times when they served to lessen the tension of difficult situations. He was a master at winning friends and influencing people. To that trait we are indebted, for his influence in the great conferences have done much to lay the foundations for a peace which we hope will come and endure through our lifetime and long thereafter. It would have thrilled his heart to see it come. He did not live to enjoy it. It is for us to understand what is required to build that peace. It is for you, as young Americans, to strive to understand the peoples of the world, how to live with them, share with them and if needs be, die with them, in order to keep that peace which, God willing, we may soon have and enjoy for generations.

Mrs. Roosevelt said yesterday when informed of the President's death "It is a greater blow to our people and the people of the world than it is for us." Truly the people of our Nation have lost a strong leader when leadership is needed. Let us be thankful for his service and pray God's blessing upon his successor and our new President, Harry Truman.

"A Friendly Place to Work"

SPORTS SCENE

By L. M. FORD

Some persons are interpreting Lower Merion High's decision not to name an athletic director as a sign to likely emphasize on interscholastic athletic competition in the near future. But a well informed long-time member of the faculty, who asked not to be identified, says this is not so, claiming that whatever emphasis is put on a sport is entirely in the hands of the coach himself.

"If a coach is aggressive, sold on his job and willing to put everything into it, he'll put that sport over at Lower Merion," our informant said. "He'll get all the cooperation he needs in that respect from his superiors. But there is no pressure from these superiors to do this. The coach makes his own breaks or doesn't get them."

This apparently holds true in all schools. Bill Anderson for example made Lower Merion famous for its basketball teams by the emphasis he put on the game both in and out of school. Alie Cornor, at Haverford High, has always pushed basketball as one of his ways to encourage sandlot competition in the summer months, and as a result the Fords have been a baseball power for years.

Cheltenham High has never been a world power in football and basketball, was only a power in track the short time John Marzucco, now at L. M., was coach there. But Cheltenham has always been tops in wrestling and basketball, and has had a reputation for its basketball team, and has put more emphasis on it than any other.

While Leo Curtin was at Radnor High (he's a Marine captain) he emphasized football and basketball at the expense of all other sports with the result that Radnor dropped track and basketball entirely, and had the number of teams in interscholastic competition in the Suburban Conference. Fortunately for Radnor and its students, that picture is broadening under a new athletic setup.

Only last year we had a chat with a high Radnor official who was all hepped up over the number of students playing football in an intra-mural program. He thought it was something wonderful, and so it was, but why football and only football? We chided him about ignoring the national pastime, inquiring that Radnor should be ashamed for not keeping this great American sport alive.

"But there isn't any interest in baseball," he protested. To which we answered that if they could arouse the interest in the school in football they could do the same with baseball and any other sport if the proper emphasis was placed on it. Maybe he took the hint. At any rate, Radnor finally has a baseball team after eight years on the sidelines.

It is really remarkable the influence certain coaches have on a sport. When Tommy Eschwege was at Haverford High many years ago, there was a lot of interest in track and while he was there Haverford almost always had a standout track team in its class. The Fords haven't been a basketball power since Haverford was just so-so in basketball for years. Since Steve Junner has had complete charge the Fords have been on the upsurge and loom as the school most likely to take L. M.'s place in the court spotlight.

All of which boils down to the coach himself. He not only has to be able to arouse interest in his sport through his personality and efforts, but also he has to have the background and the knowledge and must be able to pass it along to his pupils. This combination is rare in individuals and is why tonight coaches are not a dime a dozen.

It is only natural that the fans are debating as to what kind of a successor Ollie Robinson will be to Anderson at L. M. It's a cinch he won't be another Anderson any more than President Truman will be an F.R.R. or Senator Chandler a duplicate of the late Judge Landis, or Lee Miller another Ernie Pyle. But he definitely is as well qualified for the job as anyone else in the L. M. system and given the proper cooperation should be able to turn in a commendable job.

Robbie is one of those likeable, quiet chaps who attracts little attention although quite active and efficient. He has the material and he knows his basketball, of that you can rest assured. His teams at Chester, Berwyn and Haverford School never set the world afire but then neither did these schools. Haverford's material that's usually available at L. M.

Here's wishing him the best of everything in the toughest spot that ever fell heir to a coach. He'll be a credit to the school. After all, he walked into it with his eyes open.

West Chester Routs Haverford College

Haverford College's baseball team was buried under a 24-6 score by West Chester State Teachers College at Haverford last Saturday. Norm Sachs, West Chester hurler, held Haverford to one hit in the first five innings but was driven from the box after a seven-run Haverford uprising in the sixth.

Ardmore Trades Ash To Manoa In Exchange For Veteran Battery

Pitcher Bill O'Donnell and Catcher Rip Shillingford Joins Lions; Hurler Ray McCauley Plans Comeback

Things are looking up for the Ardmore Lions as they prepare for the Main Line Baseball League campaign which opens Sunday, May 13.

Aggressive Al Mueller, who will be field manager as well as business manager of the Lions this season, has just about completed the completion of a trade with the Maroon A. A., which brings a stand-out veteran battery to Ardmore and gives the club much needed strength.

Bill O'Donnell, right handed hurler who was one of the league's outstanding players while with Gladwyne a few years back and who had signed with Manoa before entering the army last year, and retort Rip Shillingford, a reserve catcher with Manoa last season and for many years one of the league's most reliable receivers, are the players Ardmore has secured in the first actual swap engineered under the trade rule adopted last year.

But to get this battery, Mueller had to release Bill Ash, hard hitting first baseman who was voted the league's outstanding player in 1944, to Manoa's co-champions.

"I think we got the better of the deal," said Mueller, "Ash wanted to go to Manoa and I felt we could get along without him inasmuch as Alie Acord, who has been discharged from the Army, is available for first base. Manoa didn't have any need for either O'Donnell or Shillingford and both have now agreed to play with us and we are looking on both to do the heavy part of our battery work."

In addition to O'Donnell, who only recently received his Navy discharge, Ardmore will have another pitcher in lanky Ray McCauley, who will attempt to come back after a couple seasons on the sidelines. McCauley always was a good hitter and most likely will be used elsewhere on the team when he isn't slated for mound duty.

If O'Donnell and McCauley come close to the form they showed a few years ago, Mueller is convinced he'll have as strong a mound staff as any in the league.

In addition to Acord, who formerly played under Mueller at Overbrook, a newcomer, Tom Keith, who says he played at Yale, is a contender for the first base position left vacant by Ash's departure.

Tom Fogarty, who was Joe Irvin's assistant at Bartram last year, and Ray Edelman, Haverford High star, are the second base prospects, but the latter may be called up or induction before he gets a chance to play.

Aigeldinger is slated to play short-stop again but there will be a new face at third base, with either Jack Kraus, formerly of Bartram, or Scotty McDonald, a product of the Norristown Civic League, getting the call.

Manager Mueller, the veteran Fred Brittingham and Joe Lemato, of Bartram, most likely will be the starting outfield, but when the high school season ends Ernie Prudente, of Haverford, and Ernie Quatrini, Lower Merion, will be available.

Ardmore doesn't open at home until May 20 when Brookline is scheduled to invade the Wynnefield Park. The Lions open their league race at Llanerch May 13.

such a fine job as secretary. Mr. Osborne goes to Orange, N. J., to accept a post as Y. M. C. A. secretary.

The campaign, which opens on Sunday, May 13, will consist of an ambitious 36-game schedule. Games will be played every Sunday, with double-headers being scheduled every other Sunday. Doubleheaders also will be staged on holidays. In addition there will be twilight games every Wednesday through June and July. The schedule will be divided into halves, the first half to end on July 1, and the winners of the two halves will meet at the end of the season in a playoff for the Conference championship.

Teams which make up the Conference are Berwyn, Paoli, Bryn Mawr Mother of Good Counsel, Ardmore Optimists, the Ardmore Eagles, Ardmore Nationals, Overbrook Clippers, Narberth Boys Club and either Kilmoryn or Malvern. Malvern was in the baseball league, but may not be able to take part in the baseball campaign.

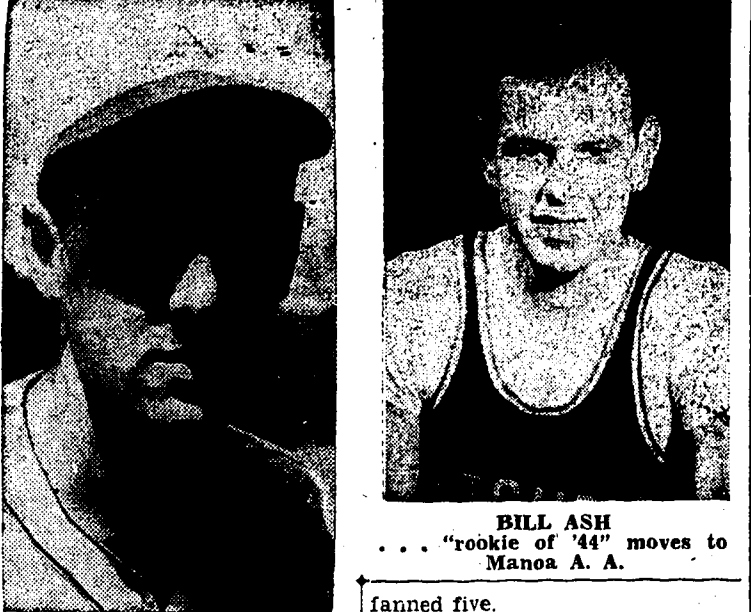

Bowling Banquet

The annual banquet of the Penfield Civic Bowling League will be held Wednesday, May 16, at McCallister's Restaurant, Philadelphia.

Prizes for the winners of the League Tournaments will be awarded, followed by entertainment.

Don Hutchinson is president of the League.

Lower Merion Nine Points for Fords

Maroon Tossers Nip Norristown, 2 to 1; Tied by Abington

Lower Merion High, currently resting in third place in the Suburban One League, will make its bid for a baseball pennant in two games with Haverford's High's defending champions.

The Maroon gets a respite from league play Monday when it tackles Penn Charter of the Inter-academic League at Queen Lane and this game is expected to serve as a tune up for the first all-important battle with Haverford at Brookline next Tuesday.

The teams will meet a second time in a postponed game at Ardmore on May 15. Haverford has defeated every team in the league except the Maroon and if Coach Gen Reeves' pupils are able to create an upset in just one of these game sit would put them in a contending position.

Lower Merion was held to a 3-3 draw in eight innings by Abington High, at Ardmore last Thursday, but squeezed by Norristown, 2-1, on Monday on the home field for its second victory in three league starts.

Lower Merion had leads of 1-0 and 2-1 on Abington and pitcher Bill West allowed only five hits, but the Ghosts managed to tie the score in the seventh, a hit batsman, a sacrifice, an error and Groshen's pinch single netting the necessary two runs.

West had better luck against Norristown. He was given a 2-0 lead in the first inning and he gave the Eagles only three hits the rest of the way to gain the decision. Norristown got its only run in the third on two errors.

Ernie Quatrini's single, an error on a sacrifice play and a base on balls filled the bags for L. M. with one away in the first innings and after Schmidt fanned for the second out Jack McQuiston's liner to left field brought in what proved to be the winning runs.

Lower Merion got only three hits off Norristown's Johnny Meyers, with Quatrini accounting for two of these. Both Meyer and West

Lower Merion Runners Second In U. S. Medley Relay at Penn; Friends' Central Wins Interac

Lower Merion High and Friends Central upheld the Main Line in the annual Penn Relay carnival at Franklin Field last Friday and Saturday.

Lower Merion chalked up a victory in a one-mile unclassified relay, placed second and fifth in national events and third in the one-mile Suburban Conference Class A title race, while Friends Central surprised by waiting away with its first Interacademic League one-mile relay crown.

Haverford High could do no better than fifth in the Suburban Conference Class A one-mile relay on Friday and sixth in an unclassified mile relay on Saturday.

Lower Merion's mile relay team of Lou Turner, Hen Uhle, Pete Matthews and Ralph Brenner came from way back to defeat Bayside, N. J., in its only winning race in an unclassified event early Saturday afternoon. The Maroon was clocked in 3:31.8 and among its victims were West Chester, Norristown, Upper Darby and Chester.

Upper Darby and West Chester led the Maroon to the tape in the Suburban Conference mile race on Friday, after Lower Merion set the pace for three-quarters of the way. A brilliant 52.6 final quart by Don Lyman pulled Upper Darby up from fourth place to victory by three strides over fast closing West Chester while the Maroon faded badly in the stretch. The Royals earned their victory in 3:39.6.

Lower Merion actually gave up its chances for victory in this race by saving its best runners for the national medley and it was in this later contest the Maroon made its most impressive showing. The quarter of Dick Geist, Brenner, Turner and Uhle finished second in a close race to Bishop Loughlin, classy New York outfit, in the first heat of the medley and this finish stood up in the final placings. Uhle ran a splendid mile in 4:38.2, but lost out in the stretch to Bishop Loughlin's Phil O'Connell, New York City Catholic AA mile champion.

Lower Merion's two mile team finished second to Bishop Loughlin in the second heat of this national event, but its time was only good enough for fifth place. In the 440-yard relay on Friday, Lower Merion could do no better than third place in its heat.

However, the Maroon pupils of Coach John Marzucco had the satisfaction of making a better showing than any other school in the Philadelphia district in the national events.

Friends Central led all the way in taking the Interac mile relay, with Don Greenfield, Emil D'Alesio, Dick Randall and Doug Greenfield running in that order to break the tape in 3:41.5. Haverford School, defending champion, Penn Charter, Germantown Academy and Episcopal finished in that order.

It was Friends Central's first victory in the event since it was inaugurated in 1914.
